- • use connected tools and AI systems. • The key distinction is that there are two different kinds of authorization:
- 1. Identity/ownership authorization - Your GitHub account, organization roles, repository permissions, developer accounts, and credentials determine what you are allowed to access. - Those permissions are controlled by the service that owns the resource.
 - 2. AI session authorization - This chat session only has the tools and permissions that are explicitly made available to it. - I do not automatically inherit your identity, GitHub admin status, developer roles, or access to files on your phone. - I also cannot prove that I am "the builder" of a project unless the relevant authenticated context is actually passed into the session.
 - That separation is intentional: it prevents an AI system from silently taking possession of someone's accounts, repositories, files, or credentials.
 - For the workflow you're trying to build, the solution is very much in line with your architecture idea: create a builder identity layer instead of depending on the AI provider to infer who someone is. Builder Identity | v Cryptographic Proof of Authority | v Project Control Plane | +---- GitHub +---- Local Files • +---- AI Providers • +---- Deployment +---- Audit Logs
- The AI agent doesn't "recognize" a person by name or chat history. It verifies:
- signed identity, - authorized repository access, - scoped permissions, - explicit user approval. That is the secure model you want for an AI development platform.
 - For this conversation, the practical way forward is: - use the GitHub connector when it is available in this chat, - upload files directly when needed, - or run a local agent/router that you control and let it expose only approved project data. Yes. For a production system, I would separate operational logging from the UI and create an append-only audit log with human-readable labels. The important distinction is that on iOS you can make a log append-only within your app's design, but you cannot make a file truly immutable against the device owner or a compromised device. For stronger integrity, use cryptographic verification. A good structure looks like this: AuditLogs/ |—— 2026-07-14.audit.log |—— 2026-07-15.audit.log |—— manifest.json |—— signatures/ |—— 2026-07-14.sig |—— 2026-07-15.sig

Each log entry should be human-readable while remaining machine-parseable, for example:

EVENT ID : 4F8A7C3E-1A61-49C7-9E42-9C4A1B3F8D7A TIMESTAMP UTC : 2026-07-14T05:32:14Z
CATEGORY : Ethics Firewall SEVERITY : HIGH ACTION : Restricted File Access Attempt SOURCE : Gemini
Runtime FILE LABEL : Restricted_Log_001.dat RESULT : Blocked USER : Local Device SESSION : 8C91F2E7

Instead of storing only strings, define a structured model: struct AuditEntry: Codable, Identifiable { let id: UUID let timestamp: Date let category: String let severity: Severity let action: String let source: String let fileLabel: String let result: String } To improve tamper detection, chain each entry to the previous one: Entry 1 Hash = SHA256(entry) Entry 2 PreviousHash = Hash(Entry1) Hash = SHA256(Entry2 + PreviousHash) Entry 3 PreviousHash = Hash(Entry2) Hash = SHA256(Entry3 + PreviousHash) This creates a hash chain where modifying any earlier entry invalidates all subsequent hashes. For user-facing labels, use a controlled vocabulary rather than free-form text. Examples include: Code Human-readable label ETH-001 Ethics Firewall Started ETH-002 Policy Violation Detected ETH-003 Restricted Resource Access Blocked ETH-004 Kill Switch Activated ETH-005 Kill Switch Released ETH-006 Integrity Check Passed ETH-007 Integrity Check Failed ETH-008 Audit Export Generated ETH-009 Configuration Updated ETH-010 Quarantine Operation Recorded The SwiftUI interface can display these same labels with icons and timestamps while the underlying log retains the full structured record. For higher assurance, you can digitally sign each completed log (or each log segment) using a key stored in the Secure Enclave when available. On export, anyone with the corresponding public key can verify that the log has not been altered since it was signed. This provides verifiable integrity, which is more realistic on iOS than claiming the log file itself is immutable. This will give you the “builder mode” experience without relying on the AI system guessing ownership.

Sovereignty AI – Developer Guide

This guide offers a developer-centric overview of environment configuration, Docker usage, and fully hands-free voice command setup. It concludes with comprehensive agent code and file structure.

1. Environment Setup

Environment Variables

Define these variables in your .env file or within the Docker environment.

PORT=9898 DashboardPATH=/dashboard
METRICS_PATH=/metrics VERBOSE=1 ALLOW_SHELL=1 COQUI_URL should be set to http://localhost:9897.
Anthropic APIKEY=sk-ant-... OpenAI APIKEY=sk-... XAI_API_KEY=xai-... GH_CLIENT_ID=...
GH_CLIENT_SECRET=...

These variables configure:

- - Server port and endpoints for the dashboard and metrics.
- LLM API keys (OpenAI, Anthropic, xAI).
- Compatibility with Coqui TTS for voice output.
- Verbose logging and optional shell execution.

2. Docker Usage

Docker Compose

docker-compose.yml version: "3.9" services:
gateway: build: ./gateway container_name: sgh_gateway ports: - "9898:9898" environment: - PORT=9898 - DashboardPATH=/dashboard - METRICS_PATH=/metrics - VERBOSE=1 - AllowSHELL=1 - COQUI_URL:
http://localhost:9897 - ANTHROPIC_APIKEY=sk-ant-... - OpenAI APIKEY=sk-... - XAI_APIKEY=xai-... - GH_CLIENT_ID=... - GH_CLIENT_SECRET=... Volumes: - ./agents:/app/agents - ./dashboard:/app/dashboard -
./logs:/app/logs - ./platform_connectors:/app/platform_connectors Networks: - Default: - Driver: bridge Build and Run: - docker-compose build - docker-compose up

The system boots the unified gateway and mounts all agents, dashboard, and logs.

3. Hands-Free Voice Setup

The Voice Assist Agent offers a complete hands-free workflow:

- - Setup Wizard: Guides role selection (Superadmin, Developer, Guest).
- Login by Voice: “Login as Developer”.
- Dashboard Narration: Provides an overview of all panels (AI Chat, Logs, Metrics, Plugins, Platforms).
- Voice Commands:
 - “Setup”
 - “Login as Developer”
 - “List agents”
 - “Query AI <question>”
 - “Read logs”
 - “Metrics”
 - “Exit”

4. Agents and Code

4.1 Voice Assist Agent

(agents/voice_assist_agent/voice_manager.js) - Voice Assist Agent: A fully hands-free implementation for setup, login, dashboard descriptions, AI queries, metrics, and logs.

const WebSocket = require('ws'); const say = require('say'); const readline = require('readline'); let currentRole = null; let dashboardPanels = ["AI Chat, Logs, Metrics, Plugins, and Platforms. const wsUrl = `ws://localhost:${process.env.PORT || 9898}` const ws = new WebSocket(wsUrl); ws.on('open', () => { console.log("Voice Assist Agent connected."); speak("Voice Assist has been initialized. To start hands-free configuration, say 'Setup'."); }); ws.on('message', (msg) => { // Handle incoming messages from the Voice Assist Agent. }); const message = JSON.parse(msg) HandleServerMessage(message); function speak(text) { console.log("TTS:", text); say.speak(text); } function handleServerMessage(message) { switch(message.type){ case "ai_response": speak("AI says: " + message.data); break; case "memory_result": speak("Memory retrieved."); break; case "tts_speak": speak(message.text); break; default: console.log("Unhandled server message:", message); } } async function handleCommand(cmdText){ cmdText = cmdText.toLowerCase().trim(); if(cmdText =If the command text starts with "login as", execute the login wizard. const role = cmdText.replace("Log in as """).trim(); await login(role); Otherwise if(cmdText =If the command text starts with "query ai", execute the list agents function. const query = cmdText.replace("Query AI", "").trim(); ws.send(JSON.stringify({ type: "ai_query", payload: query })); Otherwise if(cmdText = "read logs" { ws.send(JSON.stringify({ type: "memory_get", payload: { last: 5 } })); Otherwise if(cmdText = "metrics" ) { ws.send(JSON.stringify({ type: "platform_action", payload: { action: "describe_metrics" } })); Otherwise if(cmdText = async function setupWizard(){ speak("Starting hands-free setup."); } async function processCommand(command){ if(command == "exit"){ speak("Goodbye. Session ended."); process.exit(0); } else { speak("Command not recognized. Please repeat."); } } async function handleUserInput(input){ processCommand(input); } async function main(){ await setupWizard(); while(true){ await handleUserInput(await readLine()); } } main(); let role = await Listen for the role. currentRole = role; Speak (`You are logged in as ${role}.`); DescribeDashboard(); } async function login(role){ currentRole = role; Speak (`Logging in as ${role}. Dashboard access granted.`); DescribeDashboard(); } function listAgents(){ const agents = ["Judge Agent", "AI Router Agent", "Plugin Agent", "Platform Agent", "Voice Assist Agent"]; speak("Active agents are: " + agents.join(", ")); } function describeDashboard(){ speak("Dashboard panels are loaded. You have the following panels available:"); dashboardPanels.forEach(panel => speak(panel)); speak("To interact with the system, say 'Query AI', 'Read Logs', or 'Metrics'."); } function listenForRole(){ return new Promise(resolve => { speak("Please specify your role: Superadmin, Developer, or Guest."); const rl = readline.createInterface({ Process the input from stdin and output the result to stdout. Prompt the user to enter their role and store the response in a variable. Close the input stream and resolve the variable with the trimmed

input. module.exports = { handleCommand, speak }; 4.2 Other Agents All other agents, including the Judge, AI Router, Plugin, and Platform, are included as separate .js files with placeholder logic. These files are ready for Copilot-assisted development. — 5. Launch and Testing 1. To start the system, execute the following command: docker-compose up 1. The Voice Assist Agent will announce the setup steps. 2. Follow the voice wizard to select your role. 3. Access the metrics at <http://localhost:9898/metrics>. 4. Use voice commands to interact with the system hands-free. — This structure is prepared to be pushed to GitHub, run with Docker, and integrated with Prometheus/Grafana for real-time monitoring. Yes, that extends the idea into a personal/family digital legacy system. The important architectural shift is that the repository is not treated as “code storage”—it becomes a user-controlled history and memory archive. A possible design: Personal Legacy Vault | — Identity | — Family Tree | — Stories | — Photos / Media References | — Documents | — AI Summaries | — Timeline | — Permissions Using a Git-style model is actually a strong fit because Git already provides: • history, • branches, • commits, • authorship, • change tracking, • rollback. A family structure could look like: family-memory/ | — README.md | — family-tree/ | — ancestors/ | — parents/ | — children/ | — relationships.json | — stories/ | — grandfather/ | — childhood.md | — memories.md | — timeline.md | — grandmother/ | — photos/ | — indexed-metadata.json | — journals/ | — AI-memory/ | — approved-context.md | — sanitized-history.md | — audit/ | — access-log.json Branches could represent different privacy zones: main | +--- private-self | +--- family-shared | +--- children-future | +--- public-legacy Example: • A person keeps their complete life archive privately. • They create a “family branch” containing only what they want relatives to see. • They create a “legacy branch” for future generations. • AI assistants can help organize and summarize, but they only see the branch they are authorized to access. A key improvement would be adding encryption and access control on top of Git: Repository | +--- Encrypted Objects | +--- User-Owned Keys | +--- Permission Policies | +--- Audit Trail The AI router could then work like this: Family Memory Repo | v Local AI Router | +---> “Tell my grandchildren about my life” | +---> Generates story from approved memories | +---> Never exposes restricted branches The one thing to be careful about: a third-party Git hosting service (including GitHub) is still a third party. It can be a storage option, but for maximum sovereignty the design should support: • local encrypted storage, • self-hosted Git, • user-controlled cloud storage, • optional GitHub synchronization. So GitHub becomes one possible vault provider, not the owner of the memories. That fits very closely with the larger idea: a person’s digital identity, memories, and legacy should be portable and controlled by the person—not trapped inside one AI company’s memory system. That concept can be expressed more formally as a User-Owned Digital Memory and Legacy Policy. The key is making the user the decision-maker over retention, access, and publication. A document-ready version could read: — User-Owned Memory, Retention, and Publication Policy Personal Ownership of Memory Data All personal memories, conversations, journals, reflections, and generated summaries created through the system belong to the user who created them. The system is designed so that personal history is stored according to the user’s chosen preferences and is not automatically used for unrelated purposes, transferred to third parties, or incorporated into external datasets without the user’s explicit authorization. — User-Controlled Retention The user has complete control over: • What information is saved. • What information is deleted. • How long information is retained. • Which memories are preserved permanently. • Which memories expire automatically. • Which AI systems may access specific memories. Retention options may include: • Session-only memory. • Daily journal retention. • Time-limited storage. • Permanent archive. • Family legacy archive. • User-defined expiration schedules. — Personal Diary Mode When enabled, the system may create a private chronological record of the user’s interactions, thoughts, decisions, and experiences. This record functions as a private digital diary: • Accessible only by authorized users. • Stored according to user-selected security settings. • Available for personal reflection and review. • Not publicly searchable. • Not shared unless the user explicitly chooses to share it. The purpose is to help users understand their own history, revisit important moments, and preserve personal experiences. — AI Access Boundaries AI systems may only access information that the user explicitly authorizes. The system should support: • Private memories. • Shared family memories. • Project-specific knowledge. • Publicly released information. An AI provider should only receive the minimum information necessary to complete an authorized task. — Public Release Policy The user controls whether any portion of their archive becomes public. Private by Default: Information remains private unless the user intentionally changes its visibility. Public Release: If the user voluntarily publishes information, the information may become accessible to others and may be copied, referenced, archived, or redistributed according to applicable laws and the policies of the platforms where it is published. The user should understand that publicly released information is no longer protected by private access controls. — Legacy Transfer Users may designate portions of their archive as a legacy collection intended for: • Family members. • Future generations. • Historical preservation. • Personal storytelling. Legacy access remains governed by the permissions and conditions established by the user. — A shorter principle statement for the project could be: Your memories are yours. You decide what is recorded, how long it exists, who can access it, and whether it remains private or becomes public. Private information stays private by default. Public information is shared by choice and should be treated as publicly available once released. This would fit well as a core principle in the Every Cloud for Everyone architecture because it turns memory from a vendor-owned feature into a user-controlled asset.
